

I consider the Super Bowl halftime stunt pulled by Janet Jackson and Justin Timberlake to be totally inappropriate to be on the public broadcast airwaves. I believe that the strongest actions possible should be taken to assure that those who are responsible will be punished and that those who would attempt such type stunts in the future will think twice before exposing the many children and families watching to this type of pornography. It's not only the breast exposure. The suggestive theme of the entire halftime show was totally inappropriate for family viewing. I look forward to hearing in the news that your agency has done all it can do to protect our children from this type of filth. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Wesley E. Munsell
